Strings for Generations Ensemble

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR FAMILY MEMBERS TO PLAY AND LEARN ABOUT MUSIC TOGETHER.

Strings for Generations provides a unique opportunity for family members to play and learn about music together, under the direction of professional music educators and Pacific Symphony musicians.

PARTICIPANT REQUIREMENTS:

- Students in grades 4 - 9 who have completed at least one year of string music instruction at their school (younger students with at least one year of instruction may also apply).
- Students must participate with at least one adult family member. Adult family members must either have experience with a string instrument or be willing to learn a rhythm or melodic instrument. No prior music education is required for adults.

"My son and I loved this program! My son tremendously enjoyed playing with me and has increased his love of music. The teachers have great passion in music and provide high quality instruction to us. This is a wonderful program that has brought us closer together and I highly recommend it."

PROGRAM BENEFITS:

- The opportunity to play in an orchestral string ensemble under the direction of renowned music educators
- Small-group coaching with professional Pacific Symphony musicians
- A shared musical experience with family members and like-minded peers
- Basic music instruction for adults with little or no musical experience
- Access to special workshops and discounted Pacific Symphony tickets
